

How YOU can help us

BUY-A-BRICK. Money raised from this fundraiser will allow us to complete the work on our kennels. We need to raise $9,000 and each brick purchased gets us closer to that goal. The bricks will be engraved with your dedication and then set into the ground to form a memorial walkway within the husky ranch. Two donation levels are available: $75 donation for 3 line dedication brick or a $150 donation for a 6 line dedication brick. Both are tax deductible. # About us

ARA Canine Rescue inc (Alleys Rescued Angels) is a 501(c)(3) non-profit, all volunteer, husky rescue organization based in Apple Valley, California. We have a 10 acre ranch where all of our rescued huskies have comfortable kennels and get plenty of socialization and playtime as they await their new families.

We are dedicated to saving the lives of abandoned Siberian Huskies throughout the counties of Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino. There is a high demand for our help in other Southern California counties too.

We rescue not only the healthy and perfect huskies from the shelters, we save the medical dogs: the ones hit by cars and the sick. We rescue the blind dogs, the seniors, the ones that get left behind.

We pay for vet care and operations and provide our rescued dogs with safety and love.

Is a husky right for you?

If you want a dog who is...

Furry, with a wolfish appearance

Free-spirited & playful

Athletic and loves the outdoors

Usually good-natured with strangers

Sociable with other dogs

Thinks that running full-speed, or carrying a backpack on a hike are his purposes in life then

A Siberian Husky may be right for you.

If you can't deal with...

Vigorous exercise requirements

Massive destructiveness & howling when bored, left alone too much, or not exercised enough

Escaping, in search of adventure

Strong instincts to chase & grab anything that runs, i.e. cats

Rowdiness & exuberant jumping, especially when young

Strong-willed mind of their own

Heavy shedding

A Siberian Husky may not be right for you

Never Shave your Siberian Husky

except in medical emergencies.

There are vets and "professional" groomers out there who will tell you to shave your Husky. These people are uninformed about the breed.

Dogs don't sweat like humans. Their cooling process is done via panting from the mouth, sweating at the paws and cooling the blood in their ears. Shaving the dog does nothing to keep the dog cool. It just makes the human feel better when looking at the coated dog.

The Siberian Husky has little to no pigmentation in its skin. If you shave the Husky, you expose it to the sun without protection. Now you have a dog that can come up with a variety of skin problems including skin cancer.

Fur acts as a protection against insects and parasites. You remove that protection the dog is exposed to even more insect problems than he would have had if he had been allowed to keep his protective coat.

Shaving/clipping makes Huskies more susceptible to skin allergies, sun burn and parasite infestation. The treatments for these problems can then lead to more serious conditions.

The husky top coat works as the reflective barrier. Shaving this coat exposes the undercoat and when the two coats grow they no longer "blend" properly to allow the maximum protection necessary or maintain the look in which the husky is known for.

Get a good brush and a good vacuum.
